

HERALD CAMERA-MEN TELL THEIR STORY

Harvard's "Eggspert" Consumer

A Prize Pet

Janet Miller (above) of Brooklyn grammar school, San Diego, Cal., in Dutch costume and pet cat which was awarded first prize as whitest cat exhibited.

Consuming 48 eggs in 45 minutes to win wager, B. Tracy Ansell (above), Harvard senior, came through unscathed. Classmates kept tabs on him. Champion hen fruit swallower was aided somewhat owing to the season of the year. Present prices for eggs make it ideal season for staging egg-eating bout. College egg-eating champ's holding basket of 'em. His mother, when told of her son's uncanny ability to stow away such gastronomic portion of the succulent breakfast staple, expressed no unusual surprise or consternation.

Congresswomen Hold Radio Debate

"Republicans and Democrats in Congress" was the subject of the radio debate from Station WRC at Washington, D. C., between Representative Mary L. Norton (left) of New Jersey and Representative Edith N. Rogers of Massachusetts.

Capt. Wilkins's Arctic Plane Comes to Grief

As Commander Byrd prepares to sail for Arctic flight, Capt. Wilkins' plane, damaged on trial flight, took nose dive and crashed at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Son of England's Premier Jockey Rides 100 to 1 Shot Winner—With Father Last

A kid jockey, riding the winner, put the kibosh on his old man, who came in last. You've read about that kind of upset. King of Clubs at the wire with Pat Donoghue up, pulled it in Lincolnshire, back seat at Lincoln, England. Zenist, riding up dust on the outside, came in for second honors and Vestington Star for third. O, boys, it was one old-fashioned race!

Tornado Lays to Waste Oil Derrick Forest

Although lasting but a few minutes, twister which recently passed over Orange, Texas, oil field wrecked 125 derricks at an estimated damage of $1,000,000. As the forest of derricks tumbled, flowing wells began to spout oil and high winds carried it far over the field. Photo shows a 112-foot derrick felled by the tornado.

Stork on Twenty-first Visit

The above photo shows Mrs. L. A. Cross, 26, of Fitchburg, Mass., who was married at the age of fourteen. Mrs. Cross is shown with her twenty-first child. She would seem to illustrate that the old fashioned idea of having a large family has not died altogether in the present day and age.

Perjuror?

Earl Carroll, "bathtub producer," was indicted as perjurer by U. S. grand jury at New York. Story Joyce Hawley bathed in ginger ale, not wine, caused indictment. Carroll is shown above as he left federal building on $2,500 bail.

She Wields a Wicked Foil

She's only 19, but she wields a wicked foil! She's Marion Lloyd of Brooklyn, N. Y., U. S. junior champion who hopes to win national women's title in Fencer's club match at New York. She won junior title by downing 22 contestants in one session. Want to match swords with her?

A Winged Mechanical Deep Sea Monster

Run by an air propeller, this strange craft, known as an oceanplane, will transport its designer from Marseilles, France, to Pernambuco, he hopes. The novel craft will make the trip by easy stages.

Feminine Heels Grow Higher

Going up's last word on Dame Fashion's heels. Bizarre decorations on slippers with spike heels 2 to 2½ inches high is word for well dressed spring foot. Dark shoe on milady's foot is old style. Others show Miller Spanish spike heels.

Writer Arrival

The above photo shows John T. McCutcheon, famous cartoonist and author, who arrived at New York on the Munargo from West Indian island other day.

A Chic Spring Costume for Milady

An afternoon dress of green shaded petal chiffon with scarf effect and tied at left shoulder. Hat of biscuit horsehair with lace and flowered design.

For Afternoon

What'll be your new spring raiment? Here's tip from New York fashion wizard. It's a brown beige afternoon coat, cape effect, fox collar to match, Rebois hat.

(Copyright: 1925: Pacific & Atlantic Photos, Inc.)